「100 degrees Fahrenheit vol.3」

Yuta ISHIKAWA Sakurako NAKAMURA Kohdai DENO

Fri. 1 June - Sat.30 June 2012

Reception Party : Wed. 6 June 19:00-

We are hoping that this message finds you well in this early summer season. We, CASHI, proudly announce that "100 degrees Fahrenheit vol.3", group exhibition of young artists, is going to be held.

It is said that our normal body temperature is 98.6 ° F and we need medical treatment if our body temperature exceeds 100 ° F. So we set 100 ° F as the temperature that begins to have harmful effects on the body and named the exhibition "100 degrees Fahrenheit". "100 degrees Fahrenheit vol.0" was held in June 2008 as our first exhibition. Both exhibitions showed the heat and energy of the new generation, as exemplified by our name, "CASHI" (which means fahrenheit in Japanese).

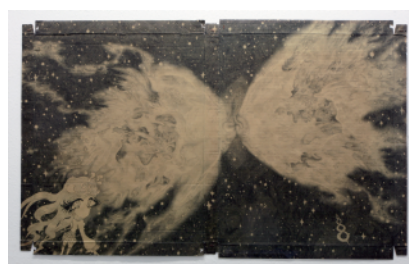

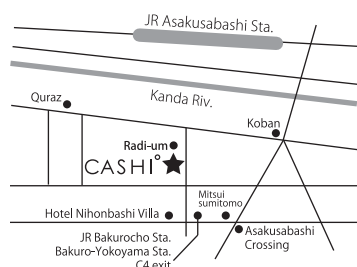

In the 4th part of this series, we are going to exhibit the work of 3 young artists. Works by Yuta ISHIKAWA are oil paintings, filled with somehow melancholy fantasy. Works by Sakurako NAKAMURA are fine high relieves, making us imagine what the hidden parts are like. And works by Kohdai DENO are sublime miniatures, using as subjects girls and insects, and the universe.

The artists will attend the reception party on June 6th. You are invited to have a look at and share with your friends the new ideas of CASHI, which is celebrating its third year.
